🕒 30–45 Min

Preparation

- 1 For the hollandaise sauce, melt the butter over medium-high heat.
- 2 In a bowl over steam, mix the yolks with the Kotányi Sea Salt, lemon juice, a dash of Tabasco and the beef broth. Remove from the steam and slowly beat in the melted butter. Cover with a cloth.
- 3 For the poached eggs, bring the water with the vinegar to a boil. Carefully break the eggs into a coffee cup.
- 4 Using a whisk, stir the water in one direction to create a small whirlpool.
- 5 Gently slide the eggs into the water. Cover the pot and let steep for 4 minutes at approx. 90 °C.
- 6 Using a scoop with holes, remove poached eggs from the water and let drain on a tea towel.
- 7 Toast the slices of toast, top with the ham and place the poached eggs on top. Finally, drizzle with the hollandaise sauce and sprinkle with a pinch of cayenne pepper.
